DETAILS

What is “No-Challenge-Clause”?

A “No Challenge Clause” is a clause of an agreement between the patent holder and licensee wherein it is agreed that the licensee will not in any manner challenge the validity of the patent time being as well as in the future.

Why “No-Challenge-Clause”?

This clause is added to protect the patent against misuse or malicious intention of the licensee, revoke his license in such cases and make his challenge to the validity of the patent infructuous.

Where to insert “No-Challenge-Clause”?

In licensing agreements of patents, it is crucial to specify the rights that have been transferred to the licensee and the amount of royalty decided. In such agreements, a “No challenge Clause” can be inserted.

The legality of “No-Challenge-Clause”?

Most of the Nations have validated the enforcement of the No-challenge-clause.

Conclusion - Enforceable

The question of whether No-challenge-clause is enforceable depends upon the jurisdiction in which such dispute has arisen. Different nations have different say in the validity and enforceability of this clause but most of the nations have approved and allowed the enforceability of the No-challenge-clause.
